Service-learning improves a student’s success in college by building the foundation for the four pillars that define the undergraduate experience for members of the Irvin D. Reid Honors College.

- Career: Service equals work experience.
- Research: Students are able to use their community service experience to create research papers and projects.
- Service: Students perform 10-30 hours of community service that ideally expands classroom learning objectives.
- Community: Students serve at local community organizations to address an identified need.

Conceptualization by LLS and MHM; Model by MHM; 2011